HIS PLEAS ARE IGNORED

Asst. He Wanted Peace After First
Battle of Marne in 1914. Told
To Mind His Own Business.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Oostersand, Holland, Dec. 3.—"I have not renounced anything and I have not signed any document whatever," the former German Crown Prince declared to the correspondent today.

"I am convinced," the former crown prince said, "that we lost the war in October, 1914. I considered our situation hopeless after the battle of Marne which we should not have lost if the chiefs of our general staff had not suffered a case of nerves."

Told to Mind Business.
"I tried to persuade the general staff," he continued, "to see peace then even at a great sacrifice, going so far as to give up Alsace Lorraine. But I was told to mind my own business and confine my attention to my own affairs. I have proof of this."

Ask for Protection.
London, Dec. 3.—The diplomatic corps in Berlin has asked the German government for protection against the anarchistic propaganda of the crown prince, which is agitating for the general arming of the proletariat, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Amsterdam.

Losing Prestige.
Kurt Elser, the Bavarian premier is losing prestige, according to a Munich advice received here by way of Amsterdam, Copenhagen and Bern. A Copenhagen dispatch says that Elser was listened by his own parliament at Munich during a celebration in honor of returning soldiers. Later a supporter of Elser was not allowed to make a speech and was obliged to flee from an angry crowd which moved the red flags along the streets and stormed the ministry of the interior, shouting "Down with Elser." Guards fired over the heads of the crowd which dispersed.

Retain Its Unity.
A Bern dispatch to the Mail says it is believed that Bavaria is gradually reaching a conclusion to retain its unity with the rest of Germany rather than seeking a separate peace. This message also reports evidence of growing hostility toward Elser, adding that there are signs in Munich of a crisis is approaching and that action favoring some form of monarchy may be taken within three weeks.

Debate Continues.
Vienna, Dec. 3.—The disintegration of the former Austro-Hungarian Empire continues and is accompanied by fighting here and there in the mountainous regions of Hungary. Meanwhile the food situation in Vienna becomes more perilous each day.

Czechoslovak Forces are reported to have occupied the frontier, thereby cutting off from Vienna large stores of provisions belonging to the German-Austrian republic.

Czechoslovak Active.
The Czech Slovaks have garrisoned the larger part of German Bohemia and are said to be pressing toward the frontiers of upper Austria. The republic of the Czechoslovak advance is illustrated by the report of a woman of Vienna who went to Raab, fifty miles southeast recently, and found the town occupied by the Czechs.

In the south the Jugo Slavs have occupied Marburg, which claims to be a German city. Their forces also have entered the provinces of Carinthia and Styria.

Poles Still Fighting.
In the northeast the Poles continue their fight with the Ukrainians and are advancing over the Carpathian mountains to the frontiers of Hungary. They are reported to be robbing the Jews as they go.

Rumanian army has marched into Bukovina as far as Kolomoia, on the river Dniester. It is believed that this force is clearly out of the hands of the Rumanian sphere in Bukovina.

The quarantine will not prohibit the wage earners in the family continuing their work, but will stop visits and restrict the members of the family to the house. The public is warned to be careful in public gatherings. It was strongly recommended that all dances be postponed for the period of the epidemic, if it should be placed.

Allies' Ultimatum to Germany, Has a Double Meaning

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, Dec. 3.—Reuter dispatch from Berlin today confirms the delivery of the ultimatum, the time limit of which is 24 hours. It says: Matthias Erzberger of the German armistice committee, offered to delivery all of the locomotives as soon as they were repaired. The German newspapers adds the dispatch, point out that there is no hope of prolonging the armistice and that it is likely the allies will occupy Germany.

The foregoing comes as an ad to a London dispatch which has not been received. It appears to indicate the delivery of an allied ultimatum to Germany for non-compliance with armistice terms with a threat to proceed with the occupation of Germany if these are not complied with.

TO CONSIDER ANTI-WILSON MEASURES

THREE ANTI-WILSON MEASURES
IN SENATE FOR CONSIDERATION
—CUMMINS RESOLUTION
WILL BE ACTED ON FIRST.

SHERMAN RESOLUTION

Resolution Proposing That Office of President Be Declared Vacant Upon Wilson's Departure for Europe.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
WASHINGTON, D. C., DECEMBER 3.—WITH THE INTRODUCTION OF THE SHERMAN RESOLUTION AND THE KNOX RESOLUTION IN THE UNITED STATES SENATE THIS MORNING THAT BODY NOW HAS THREE ANTI-WILSON MEASURES TO CONSIDER.

THE FIRST IS THE CUMMINS RESOLUTION INTRODUCED MONDAY, WHICH WOULD SEND A SPECIAL SENATE COMMITTEE TO PARIS TO WATCH THE PEACE CONFERENCE AND REPORT UPON IT TO THE SENATE.

Sherman's Resolution.
Senator Sherman of Illinois, republican, introduced a resolution proposing that the office of president be declared upon President Wilson's departure for Europe and that the vice president assume the duties of the president. He was given unanimous consent for an address criticizing the president's course.

Knox's Resolution.
Postponement until after the peace conference of questions regarding forming a league of nations and any "sweeping changes" in ancient international laws of freedom of the seas, is proposed in a resolution introduced by Senator Knox, republican, former secretary of state.

Not To Pass.
It is believed today that none of the resolutions will pass the senate but it will give the republican members an opportunity to discuss freely the president's departure and any other sentiments they may wish to express. It will be remembered that Vice President Marshall refused to recognize Senator Sherman's resolution when he first tried to offer his resolution.

Sails Tomorrow.
President Wilson will sail from New York tomorrow, probably early in the afternoon, on the liner George Washington. He is expected to land at Brest on the 11th of December according to present plans.

President's trip to attend the peace conference Senator Sherman said, was without justification, and "insidious misrepresentation" on the part of the president's departure would "suspend the legislative power of the government during his absence."

Place at Home.
Senator Sherman argued that since under the law, congress established Washington as the seat of government, "federal sovereignty rests in the hands of congress and not in the hands of the president." He added that by importance of pending questions and "the danger of the president's absence might result in grave menace."

HUN FORCES ARE EVACUATING NARVA

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Berlin, Dec. 3.—If a few British torpedo boats or light cruisers with even a small landing force, could reach off this week they could dam the Bolshevik food which has been murdering, burning and plundering Estonia and Livonia, according to a declaration made to the correspondent by Baron Aexkull, of Estonia, who escaped from that country on Thursday in disguise.

Baron Aexkull reports that German forces had begun to evacuate Narva, when the town was attacked and defeated by Russian troops.

White Guards.
Last Tuesday night white guards commanded by former Russian officers under the leadership of Count Keller, of the old Russian regime, were attacked by a superior Bolshevik force. The guards were protecting a month ago to 500 Russians who alleged they had deserted from the Bolshevik army because of bad treatment. They brought twenty-three machine guns and machine rifles and a large quantity of ammunition.

Tuesday, these Russians fired upon the white guards from the rear, contributing materially to their defeat. The white guards, half annihilated, retired.

Estonia Bolsheviks.
Estonian workmen are nearly all Bolsheviks, according to Baron Aexkull and the middle classes of the town of Narva are fleeing the same reign of terror that the Bourgeoisie of Russia have suffered.

American Prisoners in German Camps Are in Best of Health

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Dec. 3.—Twenty-three hundred American prisoners of war at Camp Rastatt, Germany, were reported "well organized, well clothed and morale excellent" in a dispatch from Lem G. Levy of the prisoners relief section, who has just visited Rastatt.

The German authorities, Mr. Levy reported, are willing to release the prisoners at once under charge.

Lists of Americans in German prison camps are still being forwarded to the war department although it is assumed that most of the men in all camps have been released. The list made public today by the War Department includes:

At Camp Rastatt: William F. Davis, Anacosta, Mont.

Reserve Hospital, Halle Bayreuth: William Dykes, Iron Mountain, Mich. Reported in Good Health. Camp Unknown: Andrew Anderson, Haverley, Minn., Otto Bast, Springfield, Minn.

This message from Mr. Levy brought the first definite news of the situation at the Rastatt camp since the signing of the armistice. Its favorable nature was regarded as gratifying in view of varying reports concerning the treatment of American prisoners in Germany. The dispatch follows:

"Found 2300 American prisoners well organized, well clothed, morale excellent and found the large camp at Rastatt well provisioned."

The German general inspector of the 14th army corps is willing to deliver them at Rastatt railway bridge in Copenhagen, and to transport them from Karlsruhe to take charge during the journey. Recommend that train be ordered to that point immediately so that delivery may be made by rail train.

W. W. Husband, head of the American Red Cross prisoners relief work in Copenhagen, is sending a large number of American prisoners to Germany and we hope to complete arrangements to send a delegation into southern Germany.

The above received advices of a substantial number of American prisoners coming from Villigen into Switzerland and are making all arrangements in our power for their reception."

SECRETARY OF WAR BAKER EXPLAINS DELAY IN CASUALTY LISTS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Dec. 3.—Secretary Baker, appearing before the senate military committee today explained the delay in completing the casualty lists of the war. He said he thought most of the unreported names were those of men slightly wounded and would come by mail.

Senators were unable to understand why only something over 100,000 names have been published, when it has been officially announced that the casualties number 62,000. The secretary said he was not satisfied with the accuracy made to prevent delay and that General Pershing had been urged to expedite his lists, sending the names as they came.

"The department from the beginning," Mr. Baker said, "has never held up, withheld or delayed giving out casualty lists. Our policy has been to give complete statement as soon as possible."

General March, chief of staff, and Assistant Secretary Keppel, were with the secretary. Mr. Keppel said the system of obtaining and verifying casualty reports in France had been slow at first and it had to be done over again it probably would be done differently.

Failure to Comply
With Requirements
May Delay Peace

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Paris, Dec. 3.—It appears that the Germans will be unable to hand over the five thousand locomotives stipulated in the armistice agreement, by December 17, according to the Matin, and it is possible that this will have the effect of delaying peace negotiations since they cannot begin until all the stipulated conditions have been fulfilled. Discussions between the allied delegations to the peace conference will probably begin tomorrow, December 20, with President Wilson taking part.

The Netherlands Government

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, Dec. 3.—A demand for the surrender of William Hohenzollern, a correspondent of the Express on Sunday, "they may be sufficiently punished by the international odium they have incurred."

Discuss War Causes.
Discussing the war, Haase said: "The guilt of starting the struggle lies with both German and Austrian militarism. The government is now investigating the pre war methods of the foreign office, particularly regarding the handling of secret funds. The result will be published as soon as the investigation is completed."

Holland Is Willing.
The opinion is held that Holland will not be disposed to put obstacles in the way. She will not be asked to deliver Herr Hohenzollern under the ordinary extradition laws but his status will be considered analogous to that of a pirate or slave trader who is not regarded as entitled to sanctuary in any country.

Undecided.
The German government is still undecided as to how to deal with the former Emperor and the Hohenzollerns.

MEMBERS OF CITY COUNCIL DISCUSS DEVELOPMENT PLANS

PLANS FOR ASSISTING IN DEVELOPING JANESVILLE FULLY DISCUSSED AT COUNCIL MEETING LAST EVENING.

MAY CHANGE ROUTES

Alderman Welsh informs City Fathers That Route of Interurban May Be Changed in Near Future.

Fully awake to the possibilities of Janesville incident to the coming of the General Motors Corporation, the main thought of the members of the city council at their regular meeting last evening was the development of a bigger and better Janesville. Never before in the history of Janesville was such progressiveness displayed by city officials. Several plans were discussed for a bigger and better city and although nothing definite was done at the meeting last evening the members convinced those present their desire to assist in the development of the city.

All of the aldermen were present with the exception of Alderman Arthur Jones of the Fifth Ward who was unable to attend owing to pressing business. After the reading of the minutes the City Clerk read a communication from Andrew Barron, owner of the Stone Quarry who asked the city to reimburse him for the property which has been used by the city since 1917 without rent. The communication was referred to a committee to investigate and make an agreement with Mr. Barron.

A request signed by Charles H. Cox and twenty five other members of the Spanish War Veterans was received asking for permission to use a room in the city hall for meeting purposes. The request was given to the committee on Public Buildings with power to act.

Mayor Valentine read the monthly report of the City Health Officer which showed that the city was practically free of contagious disease at the present time. There is only one case of small pox in the city at the present time and the number of cases of Spanish influenza in the city is very small.

Alderman Ransom presented the report of the Chief of Police for the month of November and also the report of the Municipal court for the same period. Both the reports were received and placed on file.

Alderman Cronin introduced a resolution asking that the street commissioner be instructed to repair a hole in the corner of Cherry, Elgin and State streets. The resolution was adopted.

Then the development spirit was manifested and for over an hour every alderman present displayed their eagerness to assist in developing a bigger and better Janesville. The discussion was led by Alderman Pautz with Aldermen Dulin and Welsh assisting him.

Alderman Pautz introduced a resolution asking the aldermen to pledge themselves to build ten blocks of improved streets in each ward for the next ten years. It was the consensus of opinion of all present that this would be a great benefit to the city and several plans of action for the meeting of expense incidental to the building of the streets were discussed. The subject was debated for nearly forty minutes and from the remarks of the aldermen it looks as if Janesville is going to have some streets she can be proud of within the next few years.

Janesville is badly in need of these improvements and there is not a member of the city council who opposes the plan but it is necessary for the idea to be investigated and a report will be made at the next meeting.

Alderman Pautz then introduced a resolution which would forbid the interurban cars from stopping in front of the Myers Hotel to receive and discharge their passengers. This resolution caused a good deal of commotion and was opposed by a firm stand against its passage. He explained that owing to the fact that the route of the interurban cars may possibly be changed within the next few months that he did not deem it advisable to request the company to change their stops at this time.

Both Alderman Pautz and Alderman Welsh discussed the matter pro and con for several minutes and finally Alderman Dulin obtained the floor and informed both of the gentlemen that the resolution would not hold as the interurban cars would not be allowed to stop at the corner before crossing the tracks of another railroad company.

Several of the aldermen present stated that while the opinion of the city council is in favor of the interurban cars as there was from the cars of the Janesville Traction Company. Several incidents were pointed out showing that the men employed by the Janesville Traction Company were lax in their duty and paid no heed whatsoever to pedestrians or public conveyances on the downtown streets.

Alderman Welsh requested that the management of the Traction company be notified to instruct his men to be more careful in the discharge of their duties or to take other steps to remedy the system now employed by the Janesville Traction Company.

Alderman Pautz introduced his third resolution asking for information regarding the building of the Jackson street bridge. He stated that he was far from satisfied by the progress being made and stated that it was up to the council to be on the jump.

He stated that he city now faced a great industrial growth and the main object of the city council should be to assist in the development of Janesville.

City Engineer Kerch informed the council that the plans and specifications had been in the hands of the State Utilities at Madison for over a month but no word had been received from them. It was then voted to have the City Attorney communicate with the Congressman at Washington from this district to get an act of Congress for the building of the bridge.

On request of Mayor Valentine the ordinance requiring movers to notify the city clerk of the intention to leave the city was held over for two weeks.

On motion of Alderman Dulin the city council adjourned after one of the best meetings they had held since they came into power about eight months ago.

"There's a Reason"

MICHAEL J. MULQUIN WRITES FROM FRANCE

M. J. Mulquin, who left this city some months ago for overseas service, has written a very interesting letter from "Our There." In his letter he describes very clearly the strains and hardships under which a secretary must work and also tells of his cutting and sleeping accommodations. He says he is one of the first, if not the first, received in this city from a Knights of Columbus secretary, and coupled with Mr. Mulquin's wide acquaintance in the city makes the letter doubly interesting. Mr. Mulquin is attached to the third division, which was one of the first divisions to enter upon the conquered German territory.

Oct. 20, 1918.
How is everybody back home? I been up to the front and have a lot more than I can explain. I know what it is up here, and when they talk of peace they are only getting ready for another drive. I think it will be over before long, for they cannot hold out much longer. I have been over "No Man's Land," all the little towns along the line are certainly all torn to pieces. There is nothing left of them. They are taking the stones of the buildings and making roads with them. That is all they are good for. The part of the country where we are all torn up, the fields and woods are full of holes from shells. It surely is a sight to see. One could not believe it if he did not see it. We live in dugouts or in pits. We can't go out for anything if you don't weaken. You have to be made of iron to stand it all, but we don't mind it; we go along as though nothing ever happened. Sometimes it looks as though the world would come to an end right away, and a lot of fellows would not know it if it did. They have gone through so much. But maybe about the time the sun would shine and we would feel different. We do not get much sun. It rains nearly every day, and the mud is a real nuisance. I have a pair of high top shoes that I bought in New York and, believe me, they come in fine over here. I have covered about all of France and will soon be over in the Hun's country, I think. I met a fellow the other day who knew me back home. He did not live there. We had a nice time for a while. I met a lot of Wisconsin boys but have not seen anyone from home yet. I am with the 3rd division. They are a lot of good fellows, too. Well, this is about all I have to say this time. Am feeling fine. Regards to all.
M. J. MULQUIN.

ROCK COUNTY STOCK SOUGHT BY SCHOOLS

Rock county's reputation as a stock raising community is spreading to all parts of the country as attested by orders for cattle made in the last few days. County Agricultural Agent R. E. Acheson has received a letter from E. E. Fincham of the field and husbandry department of the University of Idaho, asking for 55 head of pure-bred and grade short horns. Mr. Fincham has notified Mr. Acheson that he will be in Janesville the middle of the week to make plans for obtaining the cattle. The county agent requests farmers who have the stock required for sale to notify him at once. Following is the list of stock desired by the Idaho university: Pure bred (dairy), 5 bulls, yearlings or older; 5 cows, 3 to 5 years old; 30 bred heifers, 3 bull calves. Pure bred (beef), 5 bulls, Grades (dairy), 5 cows, 3 to 5 years old; 31 bred heifers. A. M. Johnson, county agent at Southfield, North Carolina, has asked the county agent here asking that he locate him both pure-bred and grade short horns. He declares that he will be able to pay from $125 to $150 per grade and registered pure breeds at $250. A carload is needed, the letter states. R. E. Curtis of the extension department in animal husbandry will be in Chicago this week and will make an effort to get in touch with the county agent.

STATE GUARDS WILL REMAIN IN SERVICE

Captain E. C. Baumann, of Company Q 8th Inf., has received orders from Major Packer to the effect that army inspectors will start shortly. He therefore orders all members of the company to report for drills promptly as there are many matters that must be taken up. "There is every indication that the four regiments of infantry and the reserve companies mustered into state service last year will be continued in the state guard, taking the place of the former National Guard now in federal service. The mere fact that there is an armistice does not permit of any relaxation of the drill requirements of the present state guard. Some of the state authorities intimate that the coming year will see the 1st State Guard increased in size, efficiency and perhaps the total number of regiments made greater."

PERMISSION OF WAR DEPARTMENT NEEDED TO CONSTRUCT BRIDGE

PLANS AND SPECIFICATIONS OF NEW JACKSON STREET BRIDGE MUST BE APPROVED BY WAR DEPARTMENT.

WORK TO BE RUSHED

Plans Are Now at Madison Awaiting Approval of Railroad Commission—Work Will Start Early in Spring.

Realizing that if the city is to grow in the near future, the Jackson street bridge must be completed at once the matter was given considerable thought at the council meeting last evening.

City Engineer Kerch, who has charge of the plans and specifications of the bridge, informed the council that the plans had been completed for some time and had been taken to Madison where they had been for the past month.

It then developed that the sanction of the war department was necessary before the bridge could be built. Several bridges have been built at Janesville, Beloit and Rockford without permission from the war department, but a bridge over the Rock river, which is the only one of the kind, would have to be removed at the expense of the city should the war department at any time declare that the river was a navigable waterway. It was proposed by some of the members that the bridge be built by the city without the approval of the war department as it is almost impossible to get the approval of the war department, but the city engineer declared that it would only require a little time to get permission from Washington and that it would be better to take a chance and build the bridge without it.

It will be necessary to get an act of congress before the bridge can be constructed by the city. The city attorney has been instructed to communicate with the congressmen from this district relative to having congress take action as soon as possible. Mayor Valentine and the aldermen are all anxious to get everything in readiness for the advancement of the city and they are all of the same opinion that the bridge will be a development in the city of Janesville is the building of a new bridge over Rock river at Jackson street.

The plans call for a modern structure with a single span, with room for the interurban and city cars to pass, and it is claimed by those interested in the building of the bridge that when it is completed it will equal any bridge in the state.

It is the desire of the council to have everything in readiness so that actual work on the construction can start in the next spring. Work on the first unit of the General Motors Corporation is progressing rapidly and with the completion of the factory in Spring the bridge will be a valuable asset. Not only will it be of a benefit to that company, but there are several other manufacturing companies in that section of the city which will be greatly aided by a new bridge.

PERMISSION OF WAR DEPARTMENT NEEDED TO CONSTRUCT BRIDGE

Evansville News

Harvey Sperry.
Evansville, Dec. 2.—The body of the late Harvey Sperry, who died in Madison the latter part of last week, was brought to Evansville Sunday afternoon and the funeral services were held from the Methodist church at 8 o'clock. Mr. Sperry was the son of Mrs. M. Sperry and was 22 years of age. Interment was made at Maple Hill cemetery.

Interesting letters from Miss Needles, local friends recently received, written from "somewhere in France," on Nov. 8, and they will be glad to learn that at the time the letter was written she was in hospital No. 2 at recovering from a recent operation for appendicitis. She was feeling fine at the time of writing and felt sure that by the time the letter was received she would be on duty, at a soldier.

Her letter is a very interesting one. Among other things she says: "I will have received the good news from the front last night, and you can imagine what rejoicing there was. The war is certainly awful; but so glad you folks at home don't have to know what it really is like. In this hospital center there will be about 15 or 20 hospitals, of 2,000 or more capacity, when finished. At present there are 10, in running order. The nurses' ward is at No. 54, just across the street from No. 50. We have French nuns to help the girls in the kitchen, and they are too cute for words. They chatter away and we don't understand half they say, but are able to make ourselves understood by them. They teach English in the schools here and are very patient here. They also have beautiful dolls, so guess we won't lack for Christmas cheer. Each hospital has an E. C. building (recreation) and a large mess hall for men and two women."

More News From Willis Decker.
Charles Decker received an official letter yesterday informing him that his son, Willis Decker, who had been injured in France and who was brought back to the states last month for hospital treatment, had been transferred from St. Louis, Mo., to West Baden, Ind., for further treatment. This letter stated that he was receiving the best of medical attention, and also suggested that he should visit him there. Mr. Decker and his daughter, Mrs. D. P. McMullen, of Madison, are planning on going to West Baden in the near future.

Persons.
The Reading Circle of the Congregational church met with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Barthelme yesterday. They are reading "Long Heads and Round Heads."

Mrs. Erwin Gabriel of Madison has been visiting local friends. She returned to her home yesterday. Arthur Ann is spending this week in Chicago in attendance at the stock show.

Mrs. Emma McEvoy, who has been spending some time with her sisters, Mrs. Charles Sperry and Mrs. Will Hiron, left last week for Muskogee, Oklahoma.

Residence George Pilleau, C. J. Pearsall, Frank West, C. M. Smith, Jr., and Orin Johnson spent yesterday in the Red Cross work rooms in Janesville.

Miss J. E. Lee has returned from a visit with Milwaukee friends.

John Baker left Monday for Kansas City, Mo., where he will make a business visit at the Baker Manufacturing company's branch house there. He will visit branches at Omaha, Neb., Fort Dodge, Cedar Rapids and Frederickburg, Iowa before he returns.

Miss Nell Morrissey of Verona was the week-end guest of Miss Eunice Penlon.

Dr. W. E. Holland of Chicago, who has been a guest at the Will Hiron home, has returned to Chicago.

News Notes from Movieland

BY DAISY DEAN

As was expected, Henry Walthall has married again. Divorced from Isabelle Benton a few days ago, Walthall lost little time in traveling to Crown Point, Ind., and marrying Blanche Sweet, his leading woman.

But here's the legal puzzle: The Illinois law says that one shall not marry within a year after one has been divorced. Mr. Walthall has about fifty-one weeks yet to go. Judge H. E. Loring of Valparaiso, Ind., in a decision handed down a fortnight ago, held that Indiana must recognize the Illinois law.

"Now, the case of Mr. Walthall?" the judge was asked over the phone. "He cannot be married legally in Indiana," he replied. "My decision has precedent. The Illinois supreme court has made such a decision, as also have the courts of Wisconsin."

Suppose Mr. Walthall and his cr—bride go to Los Angeles, where they have been starring in films, and live; then will they be legally married? he was asked.

"If there are not legally married in Indiana, the Indiana ceremony would not be legal in California. The law follows them," said Judge Loring. "It is incorporated in the Indiana statutes that Indiana must not make void the work of any law in another state. There is no getting around it."

And so it looks dark for the honeymooners.

The couple have appeared together in films for several years, first playing together in the comedy series.

CONSERVATION WILL BE ALL EXPLAINED

On Friday evening, December 6th, G. L. Tamm, of the Federal State Food Administration, will deliver an address on a subject most vital to this country just at this time—food conservation. Fred L. Clemmons, county food administrator, is making arrangements for the meeting which will be held in the Congregational church. The orchestra of the State School for the Blind as well as the chorus of the school will be present to give a musical inspiration with Mr. C. R. Beasmore to lead in the community singing that has become such an essential part of the gatherings in these refectory studies.

The object of the meeting is to bring home to the citizens the necessity for further food saving so that the United States can make good its pledge of aiding the refugees released from German domination, with food until they can harvest their own crop. While restrictions have been released over large food supplies and many industries, still it will be explained what must be done further in the matter for months to come. No admission will be charged and no funds collected. Mrs. Frank Van Kirk, chairman of the woman's work of the County Council of Defense, is also interested in this problem and with other members of the woman's council are aiding in the arrangements for the coming meeting.

Miss Charleston once lived in Chicago. Shes starred in "The Prince Chap," filmed here, and once worked opposite Maurice Costello in Vitagraph plays.

BLANCHE IS BACK
Blanche Sweet has been away ever since the sugar bun has been in effect. What a coincidence! Now she comes back to the screen in "The Unpardonable Sin." We think she should appear in a film with a name like that. How we have missed her! The film is a picturized version of Rupert Hughes' novel of the same title. Marshall "Mickey" Nelson will make the director. After that feature she will make "The Hushed Hour."

COUNTY MEDICAL MEN MEET THIS EVENING
This evening at seven o'clock the members of the Rock County Medical Society will meet at McDonald's restaurant for dinner which will be followed by a program at Dr. Munn's office over the Beverly theater. The subject under discussion is the Spanish influenza and its treatment. The society will hear discussions on the subject led by addresses of Drs. R. I. Ridge and Koenigsberger, from the Great Lakes training station, where they led a successful fight against the disease most recently. This same discussion has been given in Milwaukee and before other county societies and is most interesting and instructive.

The Best Cough Syrup Is Home-made

Here's an easy way to save $2, and yet have the best cough remedy you ever tried.

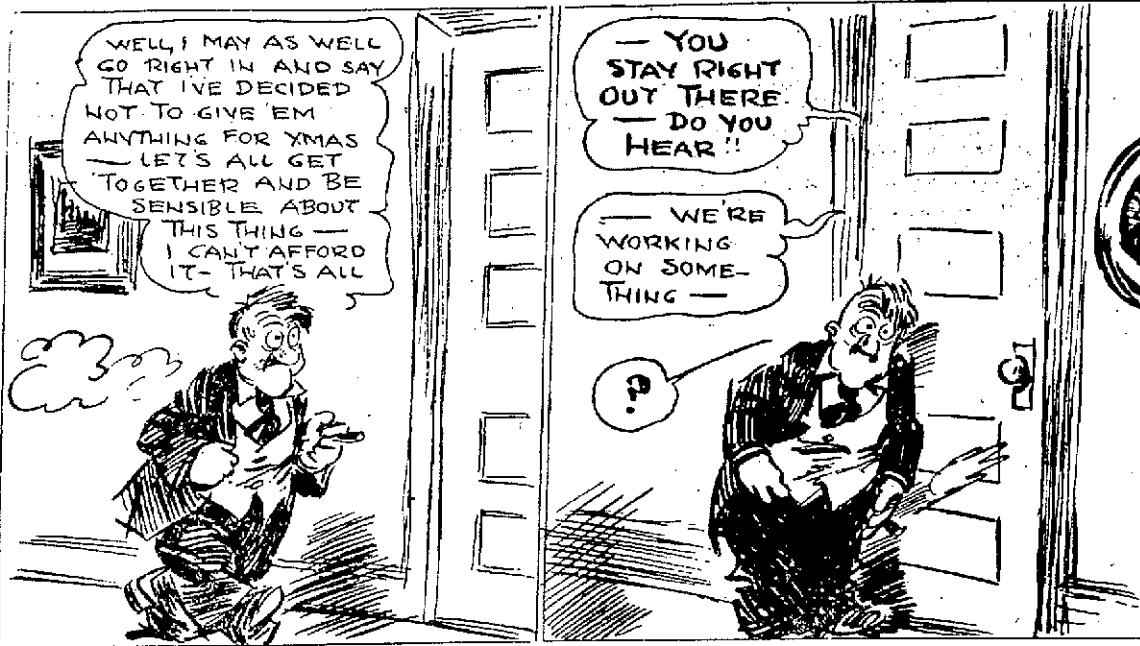

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? When you do, you'll understand why thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will quickly ease it a permanent place in your home. Into a pint bottle, pour 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you a full pint of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for ten times its cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, breaks the membrane, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

PETEY DINK—YOU, SAID IT, PETEY YOU'LL GET A PRESENT.

FIVE FRIDAYS

By FRANK R. ADAMS

CHAPTER XII.
"Oh, My Poor Tootles."
"AYBE if you tried again," said the captain to Lucile, "the pup might hear you. You didn't whistle very loud the first time."

Lucile whistled again with a considerably more audible result. We all listened.

There was a faint whine and a short, sharp, but distant bark. I presume that I was the most surprised person in the party.

"There she is!" Vida declared. "I thought maybe she was up here."

"But that doesn't sound like Tootles," Lucile objected.

"It must be," Bopp announced this masterpiece of logic. "There isn't any other dog in the house, is there? Probably her voice sounds different far off."

"And probably she is penned in somewhere, and frightened. That might make her sound different. Ah! Why did I have that idea, and why, having it, did I not conceal it in one of the recesses of my brain instead of voicing it to all?"

"Oh, my poor Tootles," Lucile began picturing her pet suffocating. "Maybe she is dying or dead already."

"Whistle again," directed the captain.

Lucile made several ineffectual attempts, but failed. "I can't," she declared. "I have to cry."

"Let me call her," I interposed. "She knows me."

As a boy I used to be able to make considerable racket by blowing on two fingers held at the proper angle in my mouth. I tried it with gratifying results. I must have been heard on the mainland.

The reply was immediate—short, snappy barks, still a long way off, but very reassuring as to vigor and delight.

"She's right under us!" Lucile cried. "No, over by the window. I should say," argued Vida.

"Poor darling, she has forgotten how she got into the place, and she thinks some one is keeping her cooped up on purpose. Please, Monty, keep on whistling. She does recognize you, and she'll know that help is coming. We must take up the floor."

In her excitement and time of need she had turned to me and not to Bopp. I didn't know how Tootles, whom I had last seen dashing up the beach amid a cloud of sand, could possibly have managed to get under the attic floor, but Lucile had called me Monty, and reason dismounted from her throne, and carnival was king.

I whistled blithely, piercingly, joyfully, coaxingly, and whenever I paused the barking rewarded me.

"Tear up the floor," Lucile ordered. "We can't let her stay there any longer."

"Haden't we better see if she won't come out by herself?" the captain asked tentatively. "It seems a shame to tear up that floor plank."

"Not for Tootles," Lucile replied. "What do I care for an old attic floor when my Tootles is in danger? She shan't stay there another minute if I can help it." She tried to pry up a board with her finger nails.

"Wait," I requested. "Let me do this scientifically."

I wrenched a leg from an old armchair which had already suffered the amputation of one of its extremities and with that as a lever pried up one of the flooring boards at the ends which extended loose over the floor beams.

As the plank came up amid a cloud of dust Lucile gave me a look such as must have rewarded Launcelot from the grandstand after he ran a certain pole through a cast iron white hoop.

We assembled around the hole I had made. No Tootles in sight.

"Whistle," Lucile commanded me. I obeyed.

Joyful barks, but nothing more.

"Take up some more boards," Lucile might have been saying. "Wait until you see the whites of their eyes" or "Don't give up the ship."

"Haden't we better wait?" Captain Perkins was an earnest advocate of the Fabian policy.

"No."

I took up another board and yet another, stopping to whistle each time, without apparently getting any nearer.

"She's there somewhere," declared Tootles' foster mother, puzzled, but still determined. "Keep on until you find her."

I had taken up all but half a dozen of the boards when my foot slipped from the cross floor beam on which I was working and struck the lath which was nailed on the other side. The lath offered but slight resistance. The plaster was even more fragile, and I went through rather badly, clutching wildly at nothing in particular. My last recollection was of Lucile's horror-stricken face as she saw me sinking from sight, like the villain in "Lorna Doone."

My next conscious remembrance was of sitting flat in the middle of a bed, the springs of which were gently bouncing me up and down after the fashion of a net into which a trapeze performer had dropped from the top of the tent. Above was a hole in the ceiling, around me were chunks of plaster and splinters of lath, and sitting in a chair by the window was Jim, his mouth open, emitting a series of short, sharp yelps.

Lucile, Vida, Bopp, Kent and the captain made a ring of faces around the hole in the ceiling.

"Stop barking, you damn fool!" shouted the captain after a moment devoted to startled surprise by all concerned.

"Are, are, sir?" replied Jim, saluting.

"Then it wasn't Tootles at all," Lucile said, overwhelmed by grief that was all the more poignant because it had been held off so long by hope.

"You have to admit that Jim is an all-around bright young fellow," declared the captain proudly. "It ain't often you can find a marine engineer who can cook and do as good an imitation of a dog as that."

"But why," I fixed the captain with a malevolent eye—"why did he imitate a dog at this particular moment? What is the cause of this character study of a canine under a floor? Why not a dog out in the yard chasing his tail or a Newfoundland pup having an argument with a dilapidated shoe?"

"Why, this was a little idea of my own," stated Captain Perkins modestly. "When I see Miss Green was going to be all broke up if nothing answered when she whistled I told Jim there to go downstairs and pretend to be the pup, just so she'd feel better."

"What I want to know, Mr. Blainey,"

"I'm glad you're all right," she was saying, "and that you have had something to eat. Don't feel badly about breaking the fast. No one blames you a bit. That's all right. We would, too, if we could."

A pause, during which she listened, a frown gathering on her face.

"Don't you worry, mother. We're all right—all except Tootles. She is lost. What's the matter? You saw some one outside in the moonlight? A man with whiskers? Nonsense. No one lives there at this time of year. Everybody left in September. Just go to bed and don't think about such things."

Lucile stifled a scream.

"Hello, mother. What? Some one is trying the door? It's opening—hello—hello—mother—"

Lucile dropped the receiver and sank backward into Vida's arms. I picked up the telephone and held it to my ear, shouting "Hello, hello!"

There was no response. The wire was dead.

When Lucile had been revived without resorting to any of the violent methods suggested by the resourceful Captain Perkins I endeavored to explain away any cause for fright.

"Even if she really did see a man," I said, "which seems improbable, he is not going to murder her. Probably he just stopped to inquire the time of day."

"But mother said he had whiskers."

"I know," I continued, "that is against him, but maybe it is hereditary in his family."

"Maybe she just dreamed it," Kent offered sensibly. "Let's call her up again. She seemed a little dazed on top when I first saw her. By this time maybe the attack is over."

That seemed a fair enough suggestion, and I acted on it. I asked central to give me Huntington's Island once more.

Jim asked, with a brightly inquiring eye, "Is how did you know just where that bed was?"

"I know where I saw that dog last," exclaimed Kent as one inspired.

"Where?" Lucile turned to him.

"He was outdoors hittin' the breeze this afternoon."

"Outdoors?" She isn't allowed out. What was she doing?"

"She was vamping up the beach, and Mr. Blainey was running after her."

Guilt seeks out the criminal, and fastens her brand upon him publicly. Policemen are but jailers. Detective are only men who let nature do their work for them.

There was a nasty staccato laugh. I did not need to look to know that it was Bopp.

"Mr. Kent seems to have a very observant mind," he said.

Lucile looked at me reproachfully. "Is this true?" she asked.

"Yes," George Washington could have done no more.

"You didn't catch her?"

"No."

Nothing more was to be said. I had been tried, convicted and sentenced.

The telephone rang. Lucile went to answer it. The rest of us followed more at our leisure. When we had arrived downstairs Lucile was talking to some one over the wire, evidently her mother.

"I'm glad you're all right," she was saying, "and that you have had something to eat. Don't feel badly about breaking the fast. No one blames you a bit. That's all right. We would, too, if we could."

A pause, during which she listened, a frown gathering on her face.

"Don't you worry, mother. We're all right—all except Tootles. She is lost. What's the matter? You saw some one outside in the moonlight? A man with whiskers? Nonsense. No one lives there at this time of year. Everybody left in September. Just go to bed and don't think about such things."

When these soldiers from the Antilles were in New York a little while ago a woman was heard to say to another:

"There goes one of them Australians."

"How do you know?"

"You can tell by the kangaroo feathers in his hat."

"During the voyage of a great liner a wag was approached by a fellow passenger, who said:

"We are getting up a tug-of-war between a team of married men and a team of single men. You are married, aren't you?"

"Now," replied the wag, "I am only seashell; that is what makes me look like this."

A president of a western bank says a woman came up to his window the other day with a cashier's check for fifty dollars.

"What denomination," asked the banker in his pleasantest manner.

"Lutheran," replied the woman.

"What are you?"

"Is Smith a truthful man?" asked Brown.

"Well, not exactly," replied Jones. "If you ever caught that fellow telling the truth he would try to lie out of it."

Night Operator-- All In

Vinol Made Him Feel Better, Look Better, Sleep Better.

Springfield, Mass.—"I am a night operator—was all run-down, couldn't sleep, had no ambition. I had tried blood and nerve tonics without help—and thought I would try Vinol and I must say it has built me up so I feel better, look better and sleep better."

Charles T. Harder.

The reason Vinol was so successful in Mr. Harder's case, is because it contains beef and cod liver peptones, iron and manganese peptones and glycerophosphates, the very elements needed to build up a weakened, run-down system, make rich, red blood and create strength.

Smith Drug Co. Vinol is sold in Broadway by W. J. Smith and Druggists everywhere.

Old Resident Dead.

LA CROSSE—Tinton D. Maine, native of Portage and prominent pearl broker in La Crosse for several years, died ten days after breaking a blood vessel while lifting a heavy box. He was 61 years of age.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Janesville Daily Gazette, Dec. 3, 1878.—The confectionery establishment of E. J. Day on East Milwaukee street was entered by burglars last evening. They broke a pane of glass out of the rear window, unfasted the catch, and thus gained entrance. They cleaned the cigar case of about fifty dollars worth of stock, and broke open the money drawer, but secured only small change. No clue has as yet been obtained as to the doers of the deed.

There was quite a sensation at Burr Robbins' headquarters yesterday. Yesterday the work of removing the lions from their cages to a place on the upper floor was in progress, when Robbins' largest and fiercest lion leaped over the head of the man who stood at the head of the cage and began rambling about the building. He was about to pounce on an antelope when Mr. Robbins came down stairs. The man who was stationed at the entrance of the cage, could not leave his post and another watchman, who was unarmed, was perched on top of the zebra's stall. Mr. Robbins grabbing a piece of tire iron jumped between the antelope and the lion and wallowed in the king of the forest until he retreated to a part of the building where he could be shut up and kept comparatively safe. Today the men are busy at work preparing to drive him to secure quarters from which he can escape. Meanwhile he is being watched closely for fear of again in escaping.

News comes from Moundsville, West Virginia, that Geo. K. Stille, the well-known and highly popular agent of Burr Robbins has taken to himself a bride. His many friends here wish the newly wedded couple the best of luck.

Low Meat Prices vs. High Cattle Prices

If the farmer cannot get enough for his live stock, he raises less, and the packer gets less raw material.

If the consumer has to pay too much for his meat, he eats less of it, and the packer finds his market decreased.

The packer wants the producer to get enough to make live-stock raising profitable, and he wants the price of meat so low that everyone will eat it.

But all he can do, and what he would have to do in any case to stay in business, is to keep down the cost of processing the farmer's stock into meat so that the consumer pays for the meat and by-products only a little more than the farmer gets for his animals.

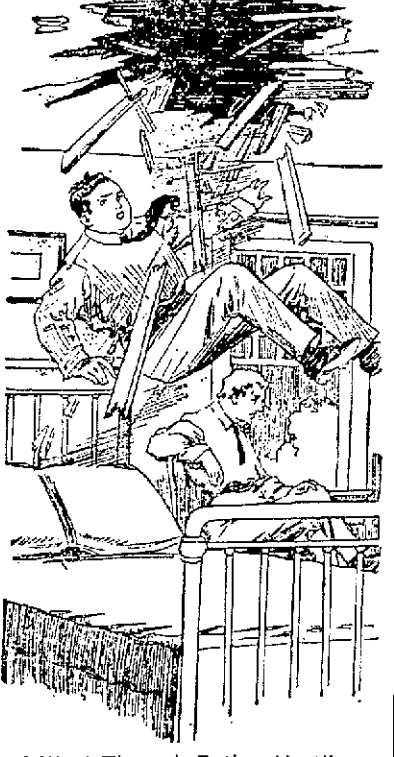

For example, last year Swift & Company paid for its cattle about 90 per cent of what it got for meat and by-products (such as hides, tallow, oils, etc.)

If cattle from the farm were turned miraculously into meat in the hands of retailers (without going through the expense of dressing, shipping and marketing), the farmer would get only about 1 1/2 cents per pound more for his cattle, or consumers would pay only about 2 1/4 cents per pound less for their beef!

Out of this cent or two per pound, Swift & Company pays for the operation of extensive plants, pays freight on meats, operates refrigerator cars, maintains branch houses, and in most cases, delivers to retailers all over the United States. The profit amounts to only a fraction of a cent, and a part of this profit goes to build more plants, to give better service, and to increase the company's usefulness to the country.

Sport Snap Shots

MORRIS MILLER

What is the tensest moment in sport? So queries a "real fan."

He evidently is a football enthusiast, because he says that as far as he is concerned the real thrill in athletics is in a star backfield man, with the game at stake, matching his speed and brains against two opponents in threatening a broken field for fifty yards or so far a touchdown.

That little episode certainly brings football fandom to its feet. To a baseball bug the situation of three on base, a home run needed, with the game and a mighty slugger up, furnishes the thrill supreme. The shot for the final hole in a championship golf match, the flash of the white ball over the net for the deciding point in a tennis match, or the cautious stalking of bull moose in the northern wilds may get the call for lovers in those sports. And so it resolves itself into the tensest moment in any sport makes the tensest moment.

Take the reader's football situation. A half a dozen times in every football game that situation is born. Some man from his own quarter and has the field ahead of him with the opposing team scattered across the field.

But ordinarily this situation, while it excites interest, does not stop the heartbeats of the spectators. The end of the game approaches. The big issue of the issue team has been too well watched during the game to show its worth. The time has come. He gets the ball on a crowd. He knows his speed and cleverness. They realize the dash will end in victory or defeat. Eleven men arrayed against him know this and are after him. He has made that same start many times during the game—from the same spot perhaps and under the same conditions.

But the crowd feels that now is the accepted time. They have waited through an hour and a half of play for it. They have been on a nervous tension all the time. Their nervous energy lets loose as does a volcano.

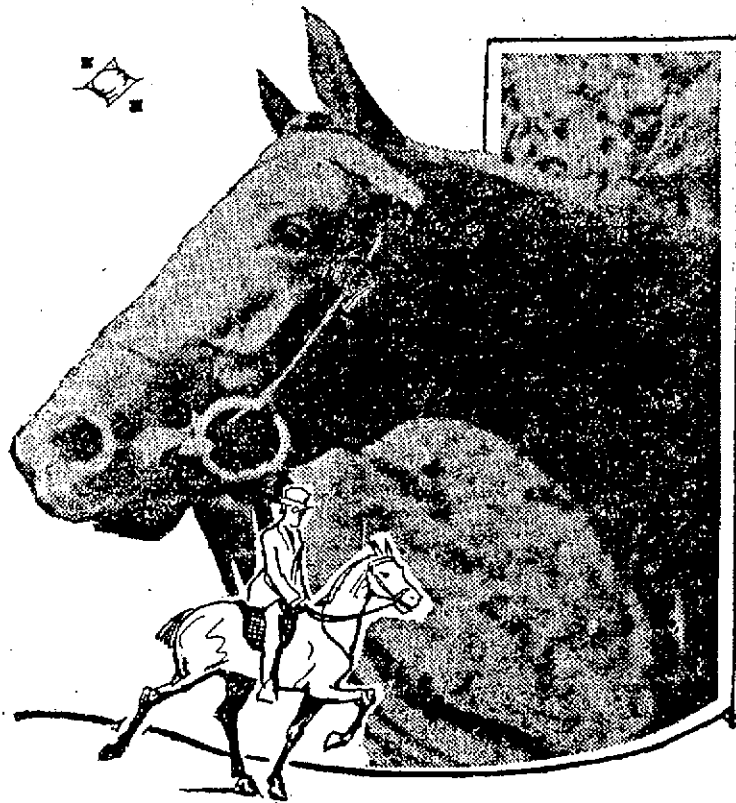

It is the big moment in the game. As to baseball. We have seen fans flock out of the park with the bases choked in the last inning of a game when they saw a weak hitter go to bat. "If he comes through it's all right," they shout. "I've seen that same crowd bite their fingers in two, tear their hats flinging out, grab strangers with a grip of steel in the intense suspense of waiting to see a mighty clouter sew up the game by driving the ball over the fence. The hit, if it comes, throws them insane.

Two unknown golfers battling to extra holes would attract no interest, however great the prize or honor going to the winner. But the golf gallery following Chick Evans and George Vardon and Ray or any other great golfers, would stand with bated breath when either man assumed his chance for the drive to the last hole or gave the ball the light touch of an artist for a short putt into the cup.

There would be no hoisterous cheering of the kind the football crowd would lose, but the spectators would live over that match and tell it to their friends in the same way the baseball fan would describe that timely swat in the ninth.

No one but the lone hunter, and perhaps his partner is in on the thrills of the moment when he raises his gun to bring down the forest

HORSE, SON OF FAMOUS THOROUGHBRED, HELPS KEEP PRESIDENT WILSON HEALTHY

"Democrat," President Wilson's mount.

The fact that President Wilson appears in better physical condition today than he was at the start of the war is the subject of many discussions. The president's ability to throw off the cares of his office, however great, for an hour each day and give that time wholeheartedly to recreation, is mostly responsible for this. Part of his recreation consists of a brisk canter on "Democrat," his favorite saddle horse. "Democrat" is a son of the famous thoroughbred sire Octagon, which Major August Belmont, chairman of the jockey club, gave to the U. S. for its experimental station.

king. But to these men the tensest moment in sport is that brief second between the sighting of the game and the pressing of the trigger. So the game itself does not make the thrills. It is the man and the crowd.

Some of the boys were swapping yarns the other day about the "good old days" in baseball when the talk drifted to the fights and near fights of those days when there was none of the handshaking "ata boy" feeling between the clubs.

"The greatest fight ever booked for a ball park was never pulled off," said Big Bill Kingzett, who was rooting for Pittsburgh in those days. "They talk about press agent stuff to get crowds nowadays," continued the big engravist. "That near-battle between Bowerman and Fred Clarke was the best little bit of publicity ever pulled."

"Bowerman and Warner were catching Matty and the rest of the boys on the Giant team. When Fred Clarke and the Pittsburgh team blew into the Polo grounds for a series Warner, so everybody said, told Bowerman that Clarke had said something about Bowerman that wasn't exactly parlor talk."

"Bowerman nailed Clarke in the clubhouse before the series ended and smacked him cold. When the Giants were due in Pittsburgh for their next series the papers were full of what was going to happen to Bowerman. Clarke, everybody said, was going to lick the big backstop in front of the whole stand. The Pittsburgh club hired a few hundred special cops. There was a top every three feet around the park. They backed up two or three patrol wagons at the exits to haul away the guys that they expected to get into the scene."

"The day the series opened the park was packed at noon. Got there at 11:30 and had to crowd in. "Bowerman caught every game of the series. If I remember right, and there wasn't the ghost of a fight. Bowerman was booed every move he made. He'd turn around and answer the crowd with a 'arse how."

"If I think the New York bunch won the series and the clubs took in a fortune at the gate."

The following account of the battle of a sixteen-year-old boy with an enraged and wounded buck of great size is told by the Adirondack Enterprise published at Saranac Lake in the Adirondack. The hero of the story is Miles Cantwell, son of John M. Cantwell, a lawyer of Malone, N. Y.

"Yesterday morning a hunting party comprising Francis B. Russell, his cousin, Miles Cantwell of Malone, and Charles Fortune of Saranac Lake returned with a handsome big buck weighing 212 pounds. It was entered in the cup contest at Weir's market, where it was on display yesterday, attracting much attention."

"The big buck was brought down after a hard fight. The party was hunting on Mr. Fortune's farm at Franklin Falls Tuesday. F. B. Santwell and Mr. Hathaway made a drive and started up the big buck. Miles Cantwell, who is sixteen years old, was stationed in a notch at the top of the hill."

"When the buck started Hathaway fired at him and hit him, but he continued on. Young Cantwell saw the buck coming straight for him at a terrific pace. It almost ran over him. He had an automatic shotgun loaded with buckshot."

"He fired three shots at the buck, knocking him down twice. Then the animal turned and charged at the boy. Cantwell drew his automatic revolver and opened fire, breaking the deer's front leg and knocking it down. He hurried over to it and fired several shots at it, hitting it behind the shoulder."

..... Jesse Burkett is managing a team in a professional polo league in Massachusetts those days. That being an indoor game, it ought to be great sport of the fans, who can hear everything Jess has to say.

INFLUENZA MORE DEADLY THAN WAR

WASHINGTON.—The recent epidemic of influenza caused more deaths in the United States than occurred among the American forces during the time the first unit landed in France until hostilities ceased. The census bureau announced. The statement was based on unofficial estimates of the total casualties among overseas forces and reports from 12 cities in America having a combined population of 23,000,000. The latter showed 22,000 deaths from influenza and pneumonia from September 9 to November 9.

While the recent grip epidemic appears to have ended, doctors agree that it is quite likely to return and in fact there have already been renewed outbreaks of the disease in various cities.

If you catch cold, don't take chances by neglecting it because it is more than likely to develop into grip or pneumonia. Begin at once taking Father John's Medicine which has had over sixty years of success for colds and in the building of new strength to resist disease.

But if you have had the grip you are still in danger. The getting-well stage of grip is the most dangerous of all because the body, weakened by the grip, is wide open to attacks of other lurking disease germs.

That is why all the organs of the body must be kept in their best working order, not only to drive out the poison left by the grip germ, but that the patient shall regain strength as soon as possible to avoid further attacks resulting from the poison in the system. For this reason Father John's Medicine builds up the body because it is all pure wholesome nourishment and free from opium, morphine, chloroform or other poisonous drugs or alcohol.

Census Bureau Says Epidemic Caused 82,306 Deaths In One Month.

Disease Quite Likely to Return.

"Get" and "Give"

By RALPH HAMILTON

(Copyright, 1918, Western Newspaper Union.)

"I wish you to help me out of a quandary, Wandell," said Peter Tyng to his lawyer. "I'm getting pretty old, and I want to get some sure idea of how my fortune is going to be spent when I am out of the way."

"That is a feature impossible of demonstration," replied he of the legal mind. "As I understand it, you have in mind leaving Percy Clare and Walter Deane, your nephews and closest of kin, most of your estate."

"All of it, practically," smiled Mr. Tyng.

"Very well, you have got to take a risk. Both of them are fair specimens of young men. Walter Deane is a free-hearted, generous sort of a fellow, but might be wasteful if he had lots of money. Percy Clare is his direct opposite—saving, almost miserly, overdoes the puritanical pose, I consider. What a fortune would do for either I can't say."

"I am willing to spend twenty thousand dollars to find out."

"Why? what do you mean?"

"Just this. I am going away for a few months to California. You make it Alaska. I am caught in a snowslide, or captured by Indians, or go over a waterfall. To all seeming I have died. I leave a will dividing my fortune between Percy and Walter. Primarily you treat the boys as sure heirs. You advance each ten thousand dollars in earnest of an entire division when the final proofs of death are secured. Understand?"

"I do," answered Mr. Wandell, "but I won't say I approve of the expensive procedure."

"It will be worth the money to me," declared Tyng, and that settled it.

Lawyer Wandell had accurately described the two young men interested. They were models in different ways—nothing of the roysterer about either of them. Walter was full of life and popular. Percy had a sort of secretiveness about him that some took for dignity and others for a mask.

"Get" was the basis upon which he operated—get friends, enjoyment, prominence, no matter if more worthy ones were jostled aside. "Give" was the motive power that made everybody love Walter. The wealth of his genial sympathy or his purse—it was all the same to him so that some one else was made happy.

In one point these two young men were unanimous—both were in love with Bertha Lane. She was the belle of their social set and unspooled by pride or praise. The group were in the heyday of youth, pursuing wholesome, engrossing amusements when the plot of Uncle Peter and Lawyer Wandell fructified. The announcement of the probable demise of Mr. Tyng shocked the town. The depth of seriousness in Walter belied the general estimate of his flightiness. The gravity of Percy deepened. Then after a little spell Mr. Wandell informed them that the uncle had provided for them fully, that they were his sole heirs, and, pending absolute proofs of death, the legacies were to be advanced $10,000 each.

By this time Walter was his old natural self once more. He spoke reverently and affectionately of his uncle, but affected no hypocritical solemnity. It was not in his nature.

"The good old soul—he is a dear old fellow," he said, and feelingly. "He always loved me, and was always worried for fear I'd turn out wild. I'll show my respect for him by starting right into my medical career."

"Ten thousand dollars is a lot of money," observed Percy Clare. "I think I know a way to double it," and opened a small office and claimed to be in "real estate and loans"—the latter most particularly, as was later disclosed.

One day the young physician amazed the community. There had been for some time a movement on foot to establish an orphan home for the district. Walter happened to be at a meeting where the subscriptions were asked to secure a site. They came in slowly. Suddenly he jumped to his feet in his forcible, impetuous way.

"Friends," he said, "it takes eight thousand dollars to secure the site. Good. I'll donate it, and all I ask is to be given the distinction of house physician to the little ones. Bless their dear little hearts! I'll be the real big brother!"

Some smiled at the characteristic liberality. Percy sneered; but Bertha, it took only this final evidence of the true nobility of soul of Walter to win her esteem and love complete. And then it came out that the real business of Percy was of loaning small amounts of money to workmen and others at a rate preposterously usurious.

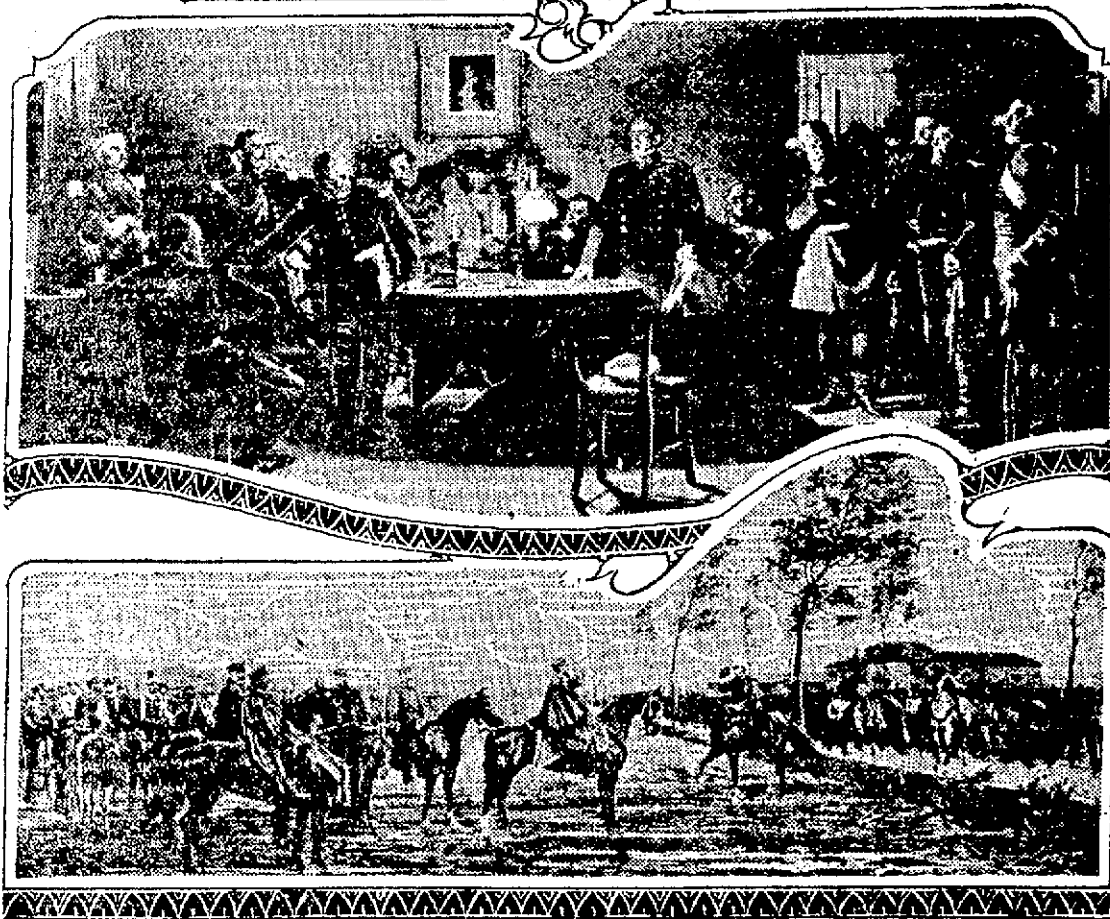

One day the "discovery" was made that Peter Tyng was alive and well. His reputation among his friends was an ovation. He proceeded to rearrange his affairs.

"Percy," he observed to his eldest nephew, "you have certainly discovered the philosopher's stone by making a dollar grow into three in a year. So you don't need much more capital. After I get Walter and Bertha settled down I'm going to build that orphan's home myself. My eyes have been opened to what lots of good an old coger like myself can do with his money. If he wants to, Walter taught me the lesson, bless him!"

HUMILIATION FRANCE SUFFERED IN TRYING DAYS OF 1870 WILL BE WIPE OUT WHEN PEACE CONFERENCE GETS BUSY

Close of the war of 1870 shown in paintings. "The Surrender of 1870," above, and "The Surrender of Metz."

France has never forgotten the humiliation of those black days at the close of the Franco-Prussian war. Germany, the victor, dictated harsh, unjust terms. The French army, forced to surrender, fled out of Metz while the German leaders looked on. The French commander was forced to ride out to the German leader and surrender his sword. When the peace conference meets the allies will dictate the terms and France's years of suffering will be avenged. Metz, under German rule since 1870, would have been retaken by the allies had the war dragged on. The allied forces were ready to batter away at it when peace came. The allies now occupy it as a guarantee during the armistice.
